

AESTHETIC-MATCH

Style Recommendation Engine — Questionnaire, Scoring Algorithm & Aesthetic Profile Library

This document specifies the end-to-end recommendation flow that routes a user's onboarding questionnaire answers to one of 15 fashion aesthetics on KaPhor, mirroring the weighted-scoring structure used by the GLIE assessment engine. It covers the 8-question quiz, the option-to-aesthetic attribute mapping, the AESTHETIC-MATCH scoring formula, and the final output template.

1. System Flow

The flow follows the same shape as the GLIE Assessment pipeline: collect structured input, retrieve reference data, compute a weighted score, route to a decision, and return a result.

Step	Description
1. User Input	User answers Q1–Q8 (multi-/single-select MCQs)
2. Backend Processing	Validate responses; build User Style Vector
3. Profile Retrieval	Load the 15 Aesthetic Profiles (name, description, essentials, attribute tags)
4. Score Calculation	Compute per-aesthetic AESTHETIC-MATCH score across 7 weighted dimensions
5. Routing Decision	Rank all 15 scores; select top aesthetic (+ close second if gap < 0.05)
6. Result to User	Display aesthetic name, description, essentials list, and match %

Note: Q4 (Body Proportions) is intentionally excluded from aesthetic scoring — it feeds only fit/size recommendations elsewhere in the app.

4. The AESTHETIC-MATCH Scoring Formula

For every aesthetic A among the 15 profiles, compute a weighted match score across seven dimensions. Q8 (vibe) carries the most weight since it is the most direct signal; the remaining six act as supporting evidence.

```
MatchScore(A) =
  0.40 × VibeScore(A)
+ 0.15 × SilhouetteScore(A)
+ 0.12 × ColourScore(A)
+ 0.10 × FitScore(A)
+ 0.08 × ShadeScore(A)
+ 0.08 × FabricScore(A)
+ 0.07 × PrintScore(A)
```

Sub-score definitions

- VibeScore(A) = 1.0 if A was the 1st Q8 pick, 0.6 if 2nd, 0.3 if 3rd, else 0
- Every other Score(A) = (number of user-selected options tagged to A in that question) ÷ (number of options the user selected in that question)

Routing decision

- Rank all 15 aesthetics by MatchScore, descending
- Return the top-ranked aesthetic as the primary result
- If the runner-up's score is within 0.05 of the top score, surface it as a “close second” instead of discarding it

Worked example

A user selects: Neutrals + Jewel tones (Q1); Dark shades (Q2); Fitted/body-hugging + Structured (Q3); Fitted but comfortable (Q5); Silk + Knits (Q6); Solid (Q7); and ranks “Office Siren” 1st and “Dark Coquette” 2nd on Q8. Office Siren scores highest across nearly every dimension plus the top Q8 vibe pick, so it is returned as the primary match — with Dark Coquette surfaced as a close second.
